Bio: A.M. LaVey is a New York-based archivist specializing in eastern Slavic spaces. LaVey serves as the Ukrainian indexer for the American Philatelic Research Library and the librarian for visual culture for The Ukrainian Museum, and is an associate at the Davis Center for Russian and Eurasian Studies at Harvard University. Research interests include Belarus, Russia and Ukraine; digital archives and creativity; philatelia; and philatelic items in libraries, archives and museums. Recent publications include "Digital archives and philatelic information: A case study," "Philatelic Metadata: A Key to Discovery" and the translation of Marka, Mariia Krystoporochuk's story about the power of philately to bring a family together in wartime Ukraine.